WHAT FUTURE DO WE WANT?

THE DREAM — A REIMAGINING

A Reimagining

Project Ladyland is an immersive theatrical odyssey inspired by Rokeya Sahawat Hossain's 1905 utopian vision. In this realm, the aggressive friction of the old world is replaced by the fluid bioluminescence of a society governed by science, empathy, and collective grace. But there is one crack in the foundation...

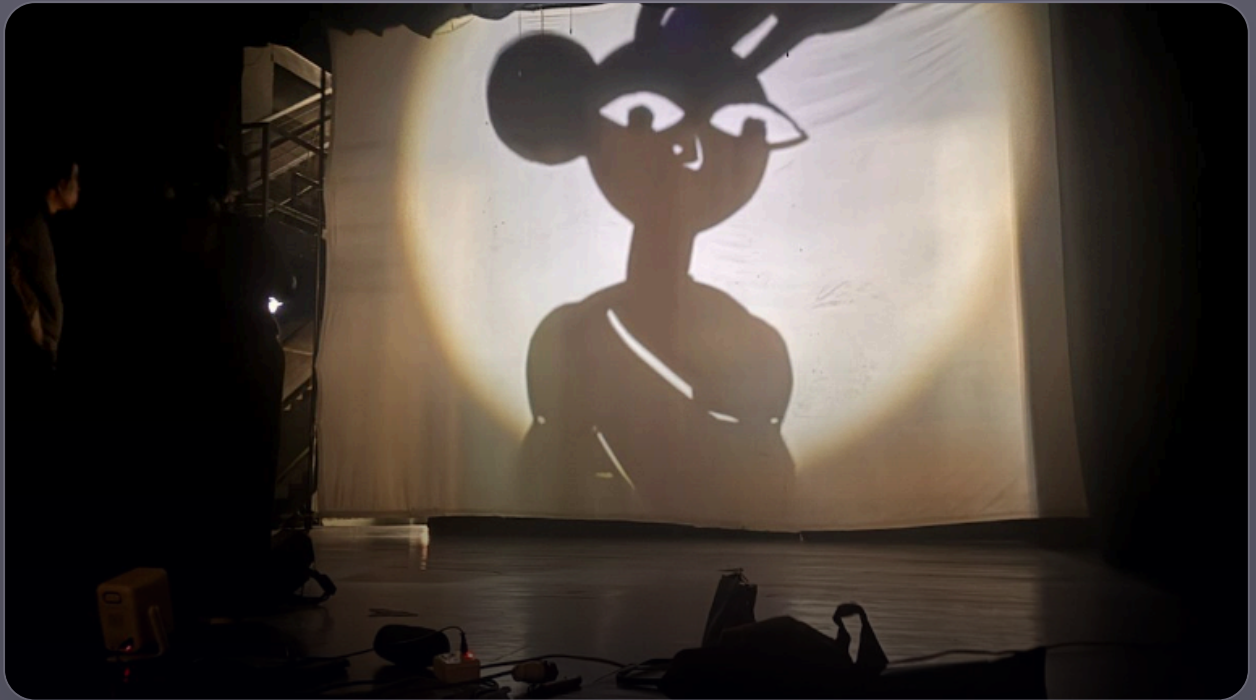

সুলতানা দেখেন স্বপ্নে নারীর-ও ক্ষমতা,
পুরুষ থাকে ঘরে বন্দী, মনে বড় ব্যথা।
শতবছর পরে চলেন নতুন করে দেখি
ভেদাভেদ ঘুঁচল, নাকি রয়ে গেল এক-ই।
চলেন তবে পালা শুরু করি এইক্ষণে
অনুমতি দেন যদি এই অভাজনে।

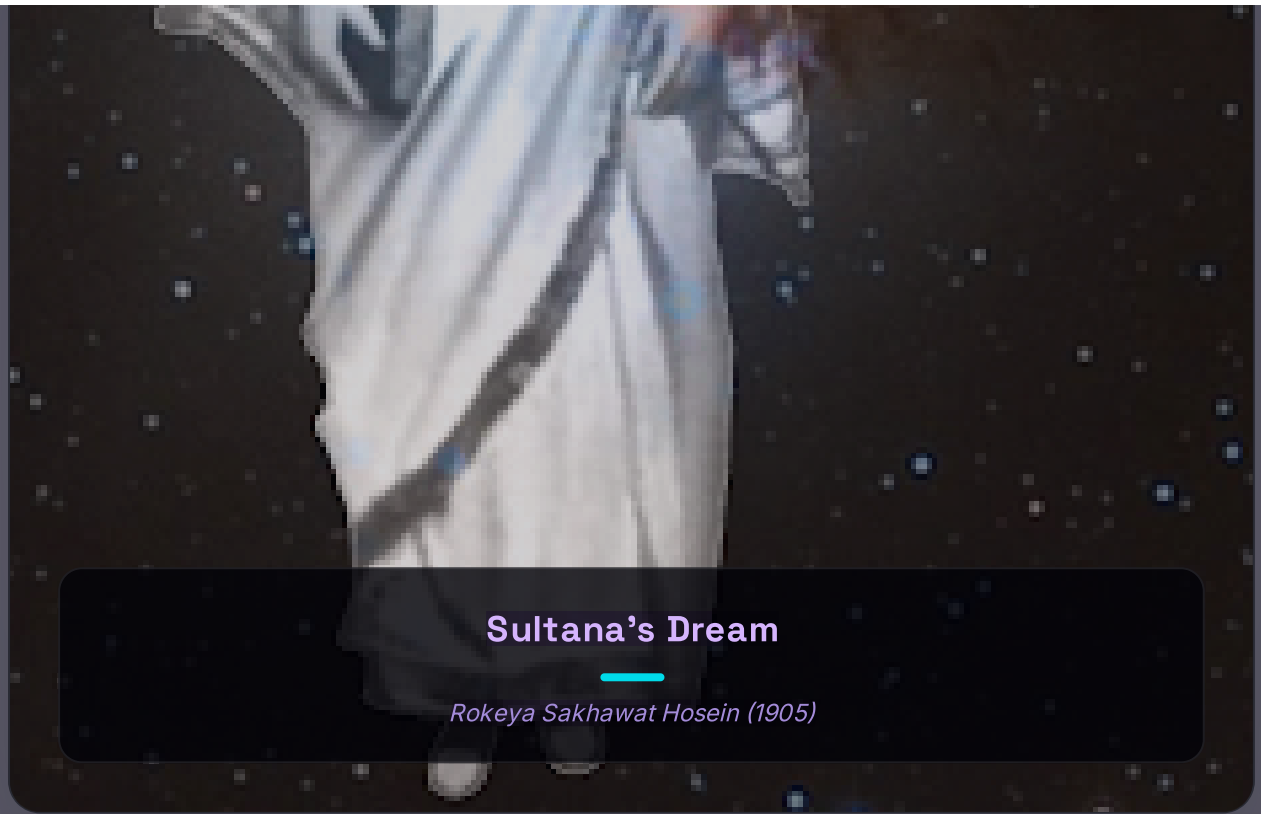

WHERE IS LADYLAND?

Ladyland is a dream in which the urgent issues threatening our world have been solved. A recycled dream where waste has been turned into wealth and beings live in harmony with nature. To make Ladyland we took the plastics and packaging waste which surrounds us and turned it into the ornamentation of the dream. To write Ladyland we took the experiences and facts of gender inequality and turned it into a question — how do we create a world where trust and balance reign?

THE LITERARY ROOTS

Feminist Science Fiction Legacy

Written in 1905 by pioneering educator Rokeya Sakhawat Hosein, Sultana's Dream proposed a world where women ruled and men stayed indoors (mardana). A satirical Ladyland featuring flying cars, solar heat harvesting, cloud condensation for rainwater, and peaceful gender reversal. Radical for its time, it continues to inspire debate and reflection today.
